Yupse, Lichfield Lizards,

This mail to notice that one of your bikes has been spotted way out of the UK!
November, 16th, a cold and wet Sunday morning in Moerbeke, somewhere in the Flanders Fields.

A lone biker, known as Azère, was riding his 120 miles Sunday trip in the borderland between Belgium and the Netherlands.

He usually drinks a cup of coffee or two in a little pub in "De Griete"
(<http://www.cafedegriete.nl/>) and then heads of for his regular stop, het Veldcafé.

When parking his Beemer, he spotted something very unusual on the pavement of his favourite pub: an American bike with a british licence plate.

Investigation has been started, to his surprise, not only he, but everybody in this little village was curious about this british bike.

Was it someone who was lost? A tourist perhaps, looking for the ferry? No... it was worse...

The person who rides this bicycle, better known as the Big Lizard, occupied his place inside the pub, on a table for four.

Azère enters the café. Fully crowded, lots of discussions, in a word, a good place to be. Most of the locals came up to him and updated him about pretty much everything what happened that morning, and moreover... what happened the day before.

Big Lizard has been seen flirting the night before with a local bird, which happens to be also the owner of the café.

Azère walked up to this big fella, and asked him if Gertje, the pub owner, really was his girlfriend. He confirmed, so Azère told him:

"Well, you must know that Gertje is MY girlfriend. So we have a problem here."

Silence on the other side of the table. "So..." continued Azère, "If she really is your girlfriend, that makes you my friend as well. Let's have a pint!" A beautiful friendship started at that very moment

Greetingz, from all of us on the other side of the Canal

Maybe we'll ride together some day

PS Congrats for your website. It rocks. Ours doesn't (yet)
